Subject: EOCCG Update 12: Planned Truck Demonstration

Good evening,

There are currently no protesters on Parliament Hill and only small pockets within the surrounding streets. There were no major incidents today; Police facilitated the departure of 6-7 trucks this afternoon and also continued to conduct fuel seizures, when it was safe to do so. Roads staff, as well as Ottawa Fire Services, supported Police today in the removal of a small encampment that had been set up on private property on Metcalfe Street, near Slater Street.

BLRS has applied to the Province for an increase in the set fine for certain relevant offences under the Noise By-law (2017-255), Use and Care of Roads By-law (2003-498) and Open Air Fire By-law (2004-163) to the maximum amount of $1,000 ($1,130 with the victim surcharge) permitted under the Provincial Offences Act.

BLRS will be submitting the same request for an increase in the set fine for certain relevant offences under the Idling Control By-law (2007-266) once City Council has enacted the amendment reducing the temperature prescribed in the by-law from five degrees Celsius to -15 degrees Celsius, applicable only to the demonstration areas. That amendment will be on the list of by-laws for third reading on the Council Agenda of February 9.

The EOC continues to work with partners to monitor and mitigate impacts to residents in the downtown core. Between January 28 and February 6, 2022, the City received over 500 noise complaint service requests. The Ottawa Hospital are reporting that the noise and overall conditions in the downtown core are resulting in an uptick in mental health concerns being reported, with a number of veterans reporting PTSD triggers. The EOC has coordinated a meeting Wednesday, February 9, with the Human Needs Task Force, Ottawa Public Health and other partners to discuss whether more support on the ground is necessary to complete broader outreach to the communities impacted by the demonstrations.

There are no changes to the NCRCC threat level, which remains at medium.
